Spurring Malaysia's
Productivity and Growth
After the COVID-19 Pandemic

Join us!

The Summit will also enable participants to have better insights, information and intelligence to make more informed decisions and better strategic plans for their organizations as well as for better risk management.

Malaysia is the 4th largest economy of South East Asia and has continued to perform strongly in recent years, due to a strong global demand for electronics, increased demand for commodities, such as oil and gas, an improving labour market, a pro-cyclical budget and ample infrastructure spending. However, the government's declining expenditure as well as lower public and private investments already reduced economic growth to 4.3% in 2019. Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the growth has been sharply reversed to -6% in 2020. Nevertheless, the IMF's October 2020 forecast is expecting a strong rebound at 7.8% in 2021 and a stabilisation at 6% in 2022, subject to the post-pandemic global economic recovery. In its most recent January 2021 update of the World Economic Outlook, the IMF has revised its GDP growth projections for Malaysia to 7% in 2021 and 6% in 2022 (representing a difference from October 2020 WEO projections of -0.8% in 2021).

During the past few years, a political crisis, low oil and commodity export prices and the slowdown in China have deeply affected Malaysia's economy, putting pressure on the country's finances. Malaysia has the highest debt levels in the region at 67.6% of GDP in 2020 (IMF, 2021), with spending increasing faster than GDP. The government faces various challenges, including the weakening of the Malaysian currency, the drop in oil prices (since oil revenues account for 30% of state revenue) and the fall in commodity export prices. Inflation went into negative territory in 2020 at -1.1% and is expected to increase to 2.4% in 2021, then 1.9% in 2022. (IMF, 2021).

The economic, health, and social crises associated with COVID-19 have reshaped economies around the world, opening up new ways of working and doing business, and new ways for consumers to access products and services, many of them driven by technology. Will these changes persist post-COVID? What are businesses likely to do and how is this likely to impact productivity growth and jobs? What should governments do to support this IT-enabled transformation, and what should they do to cushion some of the challenges from disruption? How will the pace of vaccination roll-out help productivity growth? How can Malaysia become more competitive?

9.00am	All Role-Players and Participants on standby mode
9.15am	WELCOME ADDRESS BY	Tan Sri Abdul Wahid Omar, Chairman, ECKL Advisory Council / Chairman, Bursa Malaysia Berhad
9.30am	OPENING KEYNOTE ADDRESS BY Spurring Malaysia's Productivity and Growth After the COVID-19 Pandemic	YB Dato' Seri Mohamed Azmin Ali, Senior Minister, Minister of International Trade & Industry
10.00am	SESSION ONE Will Productivity and Growth Return After the COVID-19 Pandemic? How to Strengthen the Competitiveness of the Malaysian Economy in the New Normal?	The pandemic caused the deepest economic crisis since World War II, disrupting both supply and demand. History tells us that, after the COVID-19 crisis, economies could face stagnation or broad-based growth. Will the stars align for economies after the COVID-19 crisis? <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• How can Malaysia become more competitive? What are the key issues impacting Malaysia's business competitiveness?</li><li>• How has trade liberalisation affected Malaysia's competitive advantage?</li><li>• What is the post pandemic productivity potential across sectors?</li><li>• What will it take to sustain broad-based income growth?</li><li>• How can business leaders and policymakers sustain and spread innovation and other advances that can potentially increase productivity growth, and support demand?</li><li>• What can be done to revive sectors such as tourism, hospitality, aviation and retail that has continued to be hampered by the slow global recovery as well as ongoing restrictions on global travel</li></ul>
11.15am	SESSION TWO Economic Recovery: Toward a Green, Resilient, and Inclusive Future	As Malaysia rebuild its economy after COVID-19, it is fundamental that we see this as a unique opportunity to lay the foundation for a green, resilient, and inclusive future. As we look ahead to better times, this panel will discuss what is needed to support a faster and deeper economic recovery that lays a foundation for a more sustainable and inclusive economic system for the country. This panel will focus on economic recovery through three broad lenses. <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• First, sustainability. How can we make this recovery green and rebuild economic systems to better use resources and create a climate-friendly future? How can sustainable finance helps in economic recovery? What role can ESG plays?</li><li>• Second, resilience and innovation. How can firms reinvent themselves to create more jobs and how can all the stakeholders find new ways to transform the crisis into an opportunity for growth? Can we avoid a lost generation of youth?</li><li>• And the final area of discussion will be on the topic of inclusion. How can policymakers make sure everyone benefits from the recovery and inequality is not worsened.</li></ul>
2.00pm	WELCOME ADDRESS BY	Tan Sri Michael Yeoh, President, KSI Strategic Institute for Asia Pacific
2.05pm	SPECIAL ADDRESS BY Strengthening the Domestic Economy, Building Resilience	YB Dato Sri Alexander Nanta Linggi, Minister of Domestic Trade and Consumer Affairs
2.30pm	SESSION THREE Changing Drivers of Economic Growth - The Case for Malaysia	Malaysia has witnessed strong sustained growth over the last three decades, growing at an average annual rate of 5.8%. This sustained growth performance has been accompanied by significant structural shifts in the economy, reflecting the transformation of the Malaysian economy amid the changing global and domestic environment. From a primary producer with a gradual industrialisation strategy, the Malaysian economy has undergone transformation into a highly-open economy through greater trade and financial integration since the late 1970s. More recently the factor-driven growth that has served the country well in the past to bring it on the cusp of attaining high- income status is not enough to carry the nation past the high-income threshold. This factor-driven growth is becoming more costly to sustain, with every unit of input injected into the economy yielding less gross domestic product (GDP) growth compared to the past. This panel will discuss what are the new sources of growth needed, how can we build a workforce for the future, drive digitalisation and spur productivity improvements at the sector and enterprise levels. What structural changes within the economy are needed?
3.30pm	SESSION FOUR MSMEs - Customizing Restructuring Solutions for Smaller Firms	Many surveys have indicated that micro, small and medium-sized enterprises (MSME) have been hit hardest by the COVID-19 crisis. This panel will look at whether the tools for managing credit default risks work well for both large and small firms or if specific tools and solutions need to be tailored for different types of firms. We will discuss how banks can manage large portfolios of MSME loans and the implications of their insolvency for personal and household debt.
4.30pm	End of Summit
